Hompage: trending, should update depending time of day, month, holidays, favorites
- Add recipe, shopping cart, trending, pantry, search(embedded), account in corner
    - Just a shopping list
- If user does not have the required ingredients or appliance, then application should search for recipe similar to that the user can make
- Bios are not needed but profile pictures needed, username/real name, account page does not require contact information
- Can favorite recipes and stored in separate tab

2nd interview:
- Do you want it called RecipeBuddy?
  I think this is what the program is supposed to be called - normally you wouldn't ask the customer permission to change their product's name
- Color Scheme
  Team can choose
- Do you want other user's pantries public?
  Private to user
- How many tabs are too many tabs
  Adding recipe, trending, account/preferences, visual representation of actions (i.e Search Bar)
  Trending could be the first image, ⅓ of page; can go either left or right on the page
- Do you want user-specific things (Shopping cart, pantry, recent) under a profile picture?
  Both should be private, same as the recipes
- More info about difficulty ratings? (User input, algorithm on website, etc)
  User set
- When searching for recipes, toggle between "Have ingredients" and not.
  Yes - "you have this ingredient and this one but not this last ingredient"
- Trending page on home screen, inside search, or both?
  Both

Other ideas (would be stretch goals):
Recipe author rating

10-15 appliances & ingredients
Guests cannot cook recipes from within the website - must have an account
      They ARE allowed to view the recipe however
